There is nothing about degeneracy or to warrant whole sale charges against army officers." He declared that no basis existed in papers for the charge that the wife found her husband in a compromising situation with other officers. ## "FIGHTING BOB" FIT AS A FIDDLE

Retired From Active Service on 62nd Birthday

AFTER 48 YEARS SERVICE

Pleasant Ceremony Marks the Close of Evan's Long and Distinguished Active Career in the Navy.

Lake Mohonk, N. Y., Aug. 18.—From grim warships and the sea, where he spent nearly half a century in the service of his country, Rear Admiral Robert D. Evans, of the United States navy, yesterday, in the quiet Mountain hotel, reached the age limit, 62, and passed from the ranks of the country's active sea fighters.

In reply to the query of a friend who asked the admiral how he felt on his 62nd birthday, "Fighting Bob" replied in his characteristic style:

"Fit as a fiddle, I am 62 years young today, and I expect to reach a hundred. I am taking on flesh at the rate of half a pound a day, and I haven't got a thing to do but loaf. Who wouldn't get well under such circumstances."

The greatest disappointment of his life, he said, was that he had been unable to keep the command of the battleship fleet, at least until he had visited Japan, where he has a great many friends among the statesmen of that country.

There would never be any war between the two countries, the admiral said, unless the United States forced it upon Japan. He said that the Japanese are a sensitive people and the greatest little fighters in the world, and it is not a wise policy to annoy them too much.

The admiral strongly asserted that the United States is in duty bound to maintain a large navy.

Letters from many distinguished in public and private life were then read by Mr. Simmons. Among them was one from President Roosevelt, who wrote:

Oyster Bay, N. Y., August 5, 1908. My Dear Mr. Simmons:

I thank you for your kind invitation. It is not possible for me to accept, much to my regret. Through you may I convey to the guests assembled my cordial sympathy with their purpose, and to Rear Admiral Robert D. Evans, in particular, let me renew the assurance of the high regard and esteem which I already know I hold for him. His has been one of the most honorable careers in our public service. In a peculiar degree his name typifies the growth of our navy from the days of Farragut to the day when Admiral Evans himself brought into the Pacific waters the mightiest war fleet that had ever appeared west of Magellan or east of Suez, commanding this fleet during the first period of a voyage such as no other fleet of the kind of any nation has ever taken.

It is eminently appropriate that the reception to Admiral Evans should be given in what you well call "a veritable temple of peace" for the United States navy is the best guarantee of peace we have, and all men who believe in the peace of justice throughout the world should do everything that in them lies to maintain and build up this navy.

Sincerely yours Theodore Roosevelt.

FLAG RAISING AND RALLY

Rep'ticans Hear Issues Discussed

BY FITTS AND DILLINGHAM

Atty-Gen. Fitts Takes Up State Issues, Senator Dillingham National—A. L. Blair of Brooklyn Also Speaks.

Above the upturned faces of a thousand people and to the strains of the "Star Spangled Banner" played by the Montpelier Military band the large Republican campaign flag was swung off the top of the City building and unfurled to the breeze across the street shortly after seven o'clock last evening, as the first event on the program of the Republican rally. Brief remarks were made by John W. Gordon, the Republican candidate for city representative. Mr. Gordon said in part: "Shall the people rule." Mr. Bryan has declared to be the paramount issue of this campaign. This banner which has just been unfurled means that the people shall rule. We have always supposed that the people did rule and during the past eight years not only Republicans but Democrats have been praising the administration of the Republican party. During the past twelve years that the Republican party has been in control this country has been going forward by leaps and bounds beyond the equal of any other country. It has gained in wealth by a billion dollars more than England has in the last eighteen centuries. The Republican party has given us this prosperity. Proud of its past record and confident of still greater achievements in the future the Republican party now invites you to cast your ballots for William H. Taft and James S. Sherman." The speaker then proposed three cheers for the candidates which were given by the crowd.

Nearly two-thirds of the crowd then passed into the opera house and for two hours listened to speeches on the state and national campaigns by Attorney General Clark C. Fitts of Rutland, who spoke on state issues. Senator A. L. Blair of Brooklyn, N. Y., who championed the national questions. The speakers were introduced by Chairman F. G. Howland of the state committee and seated on the stage with the speakers were Judge H. W. Scott, J. K. Anderson, B. Albisetti and James Adie, members of the city committee. The speakers were listened to attentively by the audience and frequently were interrupted by applause.

Atty-Gen. Fitts on State Issues.

Attorney-General Fitts was the first speaker and took up only fifteen minutes with his remarks. He declared that Vermont is the barometer which tells which way the national elections will swing and he urged the Republican voters to turn out to a man and cast their votes this fall for George H. Prouty as the result this election and the size of his majority is looked forward to with apprehension all over the country. Politics today, he asserted, has become a business proposition with us and you do not judge a party on what has taken place in the past, but you do consider what is taking place now and its effect on the immediate future and your vote is your influence on the political future of this country. We are in a happy state of affairs in Vermont this year, he affirmed. We have given you an administration that has brought forth the applause of both the Republican and Democratic parties, an administration that the Democrats admit they have no criticism for and they only ask to be allowed to try and do as well. The Republican party in Vermont has always met its promises with performance and you know that a measure put into the platform will be made a law and that law enforced. We promised you that we would administer the affairs of the state during the past two years with economy and without taking a cent from the taxpayers and we have met that promise with performance. We have paid all current expenses besides putting $60,000 in permanent funds and added nearly as much more to the state school fund and still have a balance in the state treasury of over $125,000. Has any other state done as well? We have made an appropriation of $50,000 from the general funds for the improvement of our rural schools and these schools have been effectively benefited, and now we are going to see that that surplus in the state treasury is put into a permanent fund, the income of which shall be for the support of these schools in the future. We promised to enact a weekly payment law and we have met that promise with performance. The passage of that law is credited to the laboring men of Barre who demanded it and to their representative and senator in the legislature who ably supported its passage. You can still continue to back up your demands by sending men into the legislature who will do so and are capable of looking after your interests. There is every reason why the Republican voters should cast their ballots solidly for the whole state ticket and I predict that in two years the other side will say all they want is a chance to do as well as Prouty has done. Give Prouty a big majority that will start the ball rolling that will elect Taft and Sherman in November.

Senator Dillingham.

Senator Dillingham was the next speaker and gave a strong and convincing argument in favor of the policies of the party and in defense of the criticisms of Bryan as made in his speech of acceptance. The speaker defied Mr. Bryan to stick to the exact records and then make such accusations as he did in his acceptance speech. We are coming this fall to a great election and it is a great thought that the people of this great country are to come forward on November 3 and determine by their ballots the policy which is going to govern this country. In as much as Vermont is the first state to cast its vote in this campaign it is essential that she speak with no uncertain voice and it is the duty of every Republican voter to vote the Republican state ticket in September. Vermont has the distinction shared in part by Michigan of being the first state in the union to put a protection plant in its platform and make it a law; the first to enact that policy and principal which lately enacted by the government has made it the greatest nation on earth. Under the influence of protection our manufacturers have become unequaled anywhere in the world. We enacted the homestead law and built the Pacific railroad for the advancement of the great western country and we have an interstate commerce that is greater than all the other nations on earth put together. The speaker then took up the criticisms of Bryan in his acceptance years ago the Republican leaders became frightened into framing up some kind of an anti-trust law and put it before Congress but that the Senate refused to consider it. What that law was or who framed it the speaker said he did not know and he had been unable to find anyone who did. Conditions have changed from what they were fifty years ago and the eighty millions of people in this country today cannot be governed by the same means that they could when I was a boy. It is absolutely necessary that there should be combinations of capital and combinations of labor to carry on the great enterprises of this country, but we must have these corporations hedged in so that they cannot abuse their privileges and the laws. The corporations in Vermont are in the hands of the legislature where they get their charters. It is your duty to send men to the legislature that will look out for your interests. On the subject of trusts 24 years ago the Republican party through William McKinley was the first to begin work on them, but unfortunately at that time a Democratic president was elected with a Democratic Congress and nothing was done with the trusts. The Democratic party since the Civil War has never been able to construct legislation. Congress cannot crush the trusts as that power lies with the state. Bryan while in Congress proposed an amendment to the constitution whereby Congress would be able to sink the trusts and every Democrat in Congress except four voted against it. In regard to railroad legislation and related laws the speaker said that the Republican party had passed effective laws despite Mr. Bryan to the contrary. The great convention at Chicago was held and there was not a man there that traveled on a pass and we had a convention in this state and not a man got there on a pass. The Elkins law made it a crime for shippers to accept rebates from the railroads or even to ask for them and to get further information in the matter the department of commerce and labor was formed and in that department is a bureau of corporations.

Do you want a man for president who has more opinions and propositions to offer than he is years old but never been able to get one of them into a law, or do you want a clear headed, able statesman of experience at the head of this government. What we want is judgment and not sentiment. Vermont is a Taft state and is going to let the country know it by giving Prouty a handsome vote.

Mr. Blair on The Candidates.

In introducing the last speaker the Chairman stated that there had been Blair as a judge from Massachusetts as he never was a judge but was a newspaper man and lived in Brooklyn, N. Y. Mr. Blair in beginning his speech stated that he always wanted to have an understanding with his audience before he started to speak. He said that when he attended a Republican rally he wanted the speaker to lambaste the Democrats the best he knew how and a Democratic speaker to rub it into the Republicans for all he was worth. He declared it did both sides good and he then proceeded to lambaste the Democratic party and Bryan in particular. He said that Vermont had a peculiar brand Democracy that could not be found anywhere else in the country. He said he lived where he smelt the Tammany Tiger every day and he proposed to the Vermont Republicans that they pay the Vermont Democrats fares to New York so that they could get a good smell of the Tiger and he would bet they would return and vote the Republican ticket ever afterwards. The country, he said, is looking to Vermont and if you do not roll up a big Republican majority the leaders of Democracy will proclaim that there is going to be a landslide for Democracy. You want to disappoint them. The speaker said he had a great deal of respect for Bryan as a citizen, but not as a politician. Mr. Bryan, he declared, was the mascot of the Republican party. The Democratic party he asserted has been losing ground ever since Bryan came into power. Taft, he declared, was a man of experience in national affairs and delivers the most informing speeches ever heard, while Mr. Bryan has had no experience save picking the fees from the Republican elephant. We know today just what kind of a president Taft will make but I defy all the cradles ever heard of to tell what Bryan would do on the next morning after he became president. We do not want any experiments in the presidential chair. The speaker dwelt at length in extolling the administration of President Roosevelt and he declared that his policies will be continued by the statesman who is to succeed him.
